Description: The Maryland Historical Trust, Maryland's State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) invites you to attend its upcoming training session – Section 106 Workshop – Working with the Maryland Historical Trust / SHPO. Each year federal and state agencies, and the recipients of their permits and assistance, undertake thousands of projects in Maryland, many of which involve historic properties. Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act and its equivalent state law, the Maryland Historical Trust Act, require government agencies to “take historic properties into account” through a consultation process with the Trust and other defined parties. Misunderstandings and confusion are common about the meaning and real-world application of these laws. In this workshop, staff members from the Trust's Project Review and Compliance Unit will share strategies and best practices for achieving successful Section 106 compliance.

Through formal presentations and discussion opportunities, the workshop will benefit attendees with all levels of experience that are interested in learning more about: the types of activities subject to review, the roles and responsibilities of the groups involved, the steps and requirements of federal and state regulations, and how interested parties and the general public can be productive participants in the Section 106 consultation (see attached agenda). Section 106 is responsible for making substantial contributions to the identification, evaluation, and appropriate treatment of Maryland's diverse historic and archeological properties. Join us for this workshop to learn how to effectively navigate the Section 106 process and ensure the responsible stewardship of Maryland's significant and irreplaceable heritage.

Targeted Audience: Federal and state agencies; local governments; recipients of federal and/or state funds, permits and licenses; consultants; preservation advocates and other interested parties.

Registration: The workshop is free, but pre-registration is required as space is limited. Please RSVP to section106@mdp.state.md.us by November 28, 2012 if you would like to attend. You will receive email confirmation of your registration status within one week of your request.
